"Laughing girls, a beautiful treal lanscape, a joyful betrethal breakfast and some ingenious appositions of comic chracter pave the way excellently for the deeper tints that follow."—Times. Woorth.

AFTER THE BATTLE.

"This is no mere dramatic tableau, but truth, and Mr.

Wallack has arranged the details with his natual keen eye to picturesque effect. No histrionic scene in our memory has brought so vividly to mind as the stage of Wallack's is the second act of "War," Byron's famous passage in the third canto of 'Childe Harolde,"—Times.

THE LOST.

"The whole is an effective realistic transcript of actual life- an absolute reflex of the passing time. It svokes throughout the same kind of interest which the reader of the morning journal daily takes in telegraphic despanches dated at or near the seat of the Franco-Frusan war. In fine, it has the interest of actuality."—Herald.
